

DISCOVER YOUR WILD SIDE

CREATE A WILD SPACE TODAY TO HELP SAVE BUTTERFLIES AND MOTHS

Wild Spaces are all around us. They are the flowers in our window boxes, the pots on our patios, the patches of weeds in our gardens or allotments and the wildflower meadows in our churchyards and parks. They provide space for nature to thrive and people to enjoy.

Butterfly Conservation is working to create thousands of Wild Spaces in cities, towns and villages all over the UK.

We need your help!

You can get involved by creating your own Wild Space or helping transform space in your local community. A Wild Space can be large or small, so long as the space is made better for butterflies and moths.

Not sure where to begin? Don't worry – we've got tonnes of ideas, advice and inspiration to get you started.

Find out more and
register your Wild Space:
wild-spaces.co.uk

